Providing Educational Programs for Students with Autism

Presented by Susan Kabot

November 8, 2007
8:30 am – 3:30 pm
(Registration begins at 8:00 am)

Jim Miles Professional Development Center
5204 US Hwy 98 South
Lakeland, FL 33813

This presentation will provide information to school administrators, supervisors, and support staff who are responsible for the implementation of programs for students with autism in the public school system. Topics that will be covered include information about autism and what program components must be included in programs for these students. The range of program options that a district must provide with particular attention to self-contained and inclusive environments will be explored. Research findings regarding educational strategies that are useful for teaching students with autism will be presented. The role of administrators and support personnel in these programs will also be discussed.
