About the Presenters

Katrina, Angela, Elisha and Anthony have been conducting social skills groups at the UF-Jacksonville CARD for over three years. They created the Behavioral Detective Social Skills Camp curriculum for children with Asperger's Syndrome ages 6 to 12. The curriculum is designed to systematically teach children with ASD social skills, such as asking questions, talking on topic, understanding body language and dealing with anger.

Training Description

This presentation will examine the importance of teaching social skills and review a variety of different social skills strategies. Participants will learn how to assess and implement these strategies in the classroom setting. Practical applications will be provided, as well as an overview of the Behavioral Detective Social Skills curriculum used at UF- Jacksonville CARD. This program employs various effective, research based instructional strategies, including direct instruction, role play, and video modeling.
