Training Description

Target Audience: (Mental/Behavioral Health therapists/providers, educators, clinicians, & professionals)

Educators and professionals in helping professions have endured many challenges for the past two years through COVID and its aftermath. Professionals have experienced difficulties in not only meeting the needs of their students and clients, but in meeting their own personal and family needs. This professional development will provide strategies to address emotional exhaustion and burnout. Educators and those in helping professions will be provided practical daily strategies to create balance and develop and implement daily wellness strategies.

Training Objectives

Participants will be able to address:

- Pandemic responses.
- Emotional exhaustion & burnout.
- Traumatic response & the grieving heart.
- Recharging & rebalancing.
- Your daily wellness prescription.
