Training Description

Target Audience: Educators, Administrators, SLPs, OTs, PTs, & Family Members

Session 3: Let's Make it Easier: Structuring the Day for Success for the Autistic Student

Most autistic individuals benefit when instruction matches their neurology. This session will describe how to remove obstacles to learning by structuring the school day for success. Emphasis will be placed on the various supports and strategies that address communication, regulation/anxiety, social skills, and academics and are applicable to students across grades.

These sessions are standalone but complementary. Participants are encouraged to attend all sessions if possible.

Training Objectives

Participants will be able to:

- Define and explain the hidden curriculum's applicability to school, community, and home.
- Describe strategies that can be used at the three stages of meltdown.
- Discuss evidence-based supports and strategies that support communication, regulation/anxiety, social skills, and academics for autistic learners.
