Training Description

Target Audience: (Teachers, school leaders, school/district administrators, families)

This session will provide a review of effective, proactive classroom and behavior management strategies grounded in a positive behavior intervention model and the principles of applied behavior analysis. The science behind the efficacy of these strategies will be explored and discussed. Participants will leave with actionable next steps and access to tools and strategies to support implementation.

Training Objectives

Participants will be able to understand and use:

- The science behind Coercion Theory, positive behavior supports, and positive psychology.
- The importance of pre-planned, consistent responses to students' behavioral errors.
- Classroom structures and routines to decrease the likelihood of behavioral errors and respond helpfully to students who are moving toward crisis.
