Training Description

The Roadmap to Reading gives an overview of how to provide effective and individualized reading instruction to struggling or reluctant readers. This workshop covers assessment, planning and setup, implementation, data, and staff training. The Roadmap to Reading is based on the Science of Reading's foundational 5 components of reading. These components are taught through the 3-Part Framework of Direct Instruction, Fluency Instruction, and Guided Reading Groups. This workshop reviews how to schedule, setup, and run each center. We go in-depth into best practices and evidence-based strategies for this multi-tiered approach.

Target Audience:

Teachers, school leaders, school and district administrators, and families

Training Objectives

Participants will:

- Understand the foundational 5 components of reading.
- Understand how to use direct instruction, fluency instruction, and guided reading to teach the 5 components.
- Learn how to schedule, set up, and run centers.
- Learn how to implement a multi-tiered approach for reading intervention.
